The Folio stacking and linking chair was originally designed as an armchair for the Folio Society in 1993 and then developed as a stacking chair for Middle Temple (where it has been in constant use for nearly 30 years). It has since been specified for the British Library, Cambridge University Library, the Sterling Memorial Library at Yale University, Edinburgh University Library, Exeter College Oxford, Trinity College Cambridge, Keystone Academy in Beijing and a host of other significant academic libraries.

Other dining hall projects include Clare College Cambridge, Gray's Inn, Historic Royal Palaces, Middle Temple, St Catharine's College Cambridge, Tower of London, Trinity College Oxford, Trinity Hall Cambridge, Yale and Duke Universities (USA).

'Now that we have got the Queen's visit safely over, I have time to write and say what a wonderful job you made of the seating. The chairs look totally in keeping... and all comment on both the quality of design and manufacture.'

Bursar, Charterhouse School

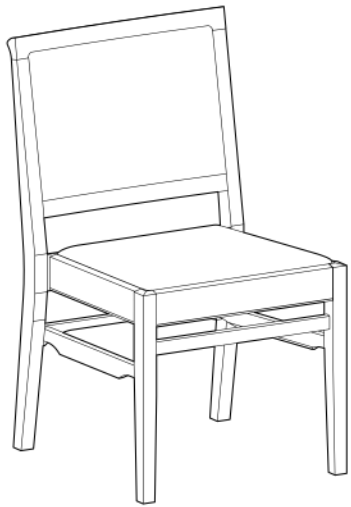

'We all think the room looks absolutely spectacular. Your furniture...is really the pièce de resistance. Please pass on my congratulations to everyone involved. We could not be more delighted.'

Bursar, Pembroke College, Cambridge

The Lincoln stacking and linking chair was originally designed for the Garden Building at Lincoln College, Oxford in 2014. It has since been used in the Fellows' dining room at the college, at Jesus College Cambridge, Butchers' Hall, Rye Community Synagogue (NYC) and Congregation Beit Simchat Torah (NYC).

'The chairs are a triumph - a classic design which is deceptively and agreeably comfortable. Thank you so much'
